

Jack H. Schron, Sr.
Honorary

Whereas, Jack H. Schron, Sr. started his formal education at Collinwood High School and has continued to be a student ever since; and

Whereas, Jack H. Schron, Sr. business known today as Jergens, Inc. in 1942; and

Whereas, today Jergens employs 300 people, many representing second and third generations, in their operations in Cleveland, Chicago and recently opened offices in Shanghai; and

Whereas, Jack H. Schron, Sr. has traveled the world with Ohio's governors to help grow the state's presence in the world community and acted as a goodwill ambassador for Ohio businesses throughout Europe, Japan and South America; and

Whereas, during their entire 63 years of business, Jergens has been located in the Collinwood community in four different facilities: 152nd Street, 163rd Street, Nottingham Road and now on the old Collinwood Rail Yards at South Waterloo Road – because Jack H. Schron, Sr. saw the need to give back to the community; and

Whereas, Jack H. Schron, Sr. had the vision to start Jergens as a company manufacturing standard components and to assist in the production of goods for the automotive, aerospace and defense industries - Jack holds numerous United States Patents for products and process improvements and every major corporation uses Jergens' products, including Boeing, General Electric and General Motors to name but a few; and

Whereas, through the use of his brain and his hands, Jack H. Schron, Sr. created a company that has had a impact on literally thousands of families, utilizing the skills and knowledge he obtained at Collinwood High School which provided him with the foundation upon which he created and built a company; and

Whereas, Jack H. Schron, Sr. will be the first to say that the proudest aspect of his life is represented in his marriage of 67 years to Esther A. Kish. Together they have shared their lives, traveled the world and raised 4 children, 12 grandchildren and 5 great grandchildren; and

Resolved that the Collinwood High School Alumni Association and Collinwood High School acknowledges and commends Jack H. Schron, Sr. for his contributions to Collinwood High School and the community; and be it further

Resolved that this resolution be made part of the official records of the Collinwood High School Alumni Association and that copies of this resolution be presented to Jack H. Schron, Sr. and family.